

Halloween

Halloween is time of excitement for children and parents but unfortunately that is not usually the case for pets. Trick or Treaters in their festive costumes can frighten your animal. Furthermore, the continuous knocking on doors can startle your pet. Help calm your pets by placing them in a secure room (away from the noise) until the night is over. By bringing your animals indoor, you are also keeping them safe from predators, both humans and other animals. In addition, remember to watch Fluffy or Fido around the candy...chocolate can be deadly. Lastly, make sure all young trick or treaters know not to give candy to their pets!
